Challenges: There is a great deal of activity at the house and we strive to see that all are given attention and their needs are adequately addressed EACH DAY. Two are working on reuniting with their children. (One just left abruptly) One is placing ( we think ) her baby for adoption and one is due in Oct.. The group seems “meant to be together” and we are amazed at what information is exchanged and how they are learning very important parenting techniques and support for each other’s situations. Meetings are very difficult to schedule with one mom working and two attending lengthy addiction treatments twice each week. All use the bus for their appointments which takes even longer. They try and keep up with everything but as Director I would love to spend more time with them to plan their futures. Our housemothers try to make their time ‘at home’ conducive to rest and relaxation but also need to teach and direct them toward independence and healthy living.

Comments: We have much sadness at times with the adoption and also joy. Hormones are raging but totally appropriate and in ‘control’. Our housemothers are indispensable and I would hate to see this group grappling with their problems without this wonderful home for them to relax and be supported in their “hour of need”.
